Waterfowl hunting permits now required at Stillhouse Hollow Lake

Waterfowl hunting permits are now required at Stillhouse Hollow Lake.

All persons wishing to hunt waterfowl on Army Corps of Engineers land at Stillhouse Hollow Lake must register once during each hunting year to receive a free waterfowl hunting permit. A valid state hunting license is required to receive the permit. Registration must be done in person at the Belton/Stillhouse Hollow Lake Office or by special arrangement with a Corps park ranger. Registered hunters will receive a personal permit card, which they must carry while hunting, and a vehicle tag, which must be displayed in their vehicle window.

The permits will help Corps personnel maintain hunter safety with the increased number of hunters at the lake.

Complete hunting information and details concerning registration procedures may be obtained from the Belton/Stillhouse Hollow Lake Office, 3740 FM 1670 in Belton (by Stillhouse Hollow Lake Dam), from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. People can also call the lake office at (254) 939-2461 for more information.

Starting with the 2001 hunting season, the Corps will also require an annual registration and permit for waterfowl hunting at Belton Lake.
